I have watched the development and strengthening of three skill sets that enable people to come to a deeply visionary and generous relationship with money. I call them Knowledge, Understanding, and Vigor. Just one won't do; we need all three.

Knowledge removes doubt, the ancient Chinese sage Confucius said, because we enjoy the confidence of knowing what we are doing. Virtue—or Understanding—eliminates care, because we are at peace in our own hearts. And courage—or Vigor—removes fear because we know we have the strength, persistence, and discipline to carry our journey through.

There are two layers of Knowledge about money, the one deep and the other practical. The first, and deep, layer of Knowledge is that money speaks of human character.

The second, and practical, layer of Knowledge lay in learning and developing the skills needed to handle money well—earning, bill-paying, budgeting, and saving.

The two layers of money Knowledge are woven tightly together. Only if we master money's practical side can we engage fully in its human lessons, and only if we perceive money's depths can we apply practical financial skills in ways that enrich our lives rather than detract from them. Without this deep level of Knowledge, our lives around money will be filled with conflicts and problems.
